DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

Claims 1-3,5-12 and 15-17 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Tsukazaki et al (US 5837094) in view of Hoekstra et al (US 5542146).

Re clms 1,5-8, 15-16: Tsukazaki et al discloses a particle detection and removal system comprising: a sample port (Tsukazaki et al 12), a vacuum source having a vacuum port (inherent), and a particle sensor connected between the vacuum source and the sample port (Tsukazaki et al 15). However, Tsukazaki et al does not specifically disclose the structure of the diameter of the sample port is smaller than a diameter of the vacuum port. Hoekstra et al discloses that in a vacuum system the diameter of a sample port (Tsukazaki et al 26) is smaller than a diameter of a vacuum port (Tsukazaki et al 162) because it increases suction power. Therefore it would have been obvious to a person of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to have the diameter of the sample port be smaller than the diameter of the vacuum port in the apparatus of Tsukazaki et al as disclosed by Hoekstra et al because it would increase suction power.

Re clms 2,11,12: modulating vacuum pressure (Hoekstra et al Fig 2)

Re clms 3,10: venturi boost and hose diameter (an obvious matter of design choice since any means of modulating vacuum pressure would work)

Re clm 9: a portable cart (Hoekstra et al Fig 1)

Allowable Subject Matter

Claims 4,13 and 14 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

The following is a statement of reasons for the indication of allowable subject matter: the prior art of record fails to disclose or suggest a solenoid in conjunction with the rest of the claimed subject matter.

Conclusion

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. Bennett et al 5367139.

Note: No IDS has been filed to date in the instant case.
